

The Friends of the Library once was a very active group of volunteers, who over time have moved onto other volunteer work. There has recently been a renewed interest in the Friends group here at the library. To make the Friends the active group they once were, they are currently seeking more dedicated and motivated members to be involved in supporting the library. With membership on the rise, there is hope to return to monthly meetings shortly.

What does it mean to be a friend?
